

WASHINGTON, D. C., SUNDAY, JUNE 22, 1913.

Society

Midseason Gayeties.

THE President and Mrs. Wilson, accompanied by the Misses Wilson and Miss Bones, motored to Baltimore yesterday to attend the wedding of Miss Ethel P. McCormick, daughter of Mrs. Isaac Emerson, and Mr. Francis Huger McAdoo, son of the Secretary of the Treasury. The ceremony took place at "Brookland Wood," the country estate of Capt. Emerson, in the Green Spring Valley.

Mrs. Wilson, despite the heat, still keeps up her informal afternoon teas, for which invitations are eagerly sought, and except when guests are invited informally to dinner, all official entertaining at the White House is a thing of the past and will not be revived until next December.

The Misses Wilson are enthusiastic and graceful dancers, and, when in town, usually motor out to the Chevy Chase Club on Wednesday and Saturday nights for the informal club dances which are held on those evenings. The club is far enough away from Washington to make the drive, there and back exceedingly cool and pleasant on hot evenings.

The Italian Ambassador, Marquis Cusani, was host last night at one of the most brilliant dinner parties given in Washington in a long time. The guest of honor was Mr. Thomas Nelson Page, the distinguished author and recently appointed American Ambassador to Italy.

Marquis Cusani, whose hospitable home in New Hampshire Avenue has been the scene of many original and beautiful entertainments during the past winter, personally supervises the arrangements of the dinner table, and under his instructions the major domo achieved a wonderful effect in the decoration of the table last night.

The Italian national colors, red, white, and green, formed the color scheme, and at either end of the table were arranged circular chains made of boxwood, which represented the "Amenutiata," the highest order of Italy.

In the center of the table were placed four letters, also made of boxwood, the initials being "F. E. R. T." and meaning "Fortitudo Ejus Rhodum Tenuit." The Latin refers to Prince Amadeus V, surnamed the Great, who forced the Turks to raise the siege of Rome, and in commemoration of this victory, he substituted for the eagles in his coat of arms, the initials, "F. E. R. T."—a literal translation being, "A former Prince of Savoy conquered the Island Rhodes."

Red and white flowers forming stars were also used in decorating the table.

The guests at the dinner were, in addition to the host and Mr. Page, the French Ambassador and Mme. Jusserand, Mr. Henry White, former American Ambassador to France, and Mrs. White; Mr. and Mrs. George S. Graham, Col. and Mrs. Spencer Cosby, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Noyes, Mr. and Mrs. George Howland Chase, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hollister Chapman, Mr. and Mrs. Manton Wyvell, Miss Isabella Hagner, Miss Dorothy Williams, Miss Lucy Hoke Smith, Miss Margaretta Symons, Senorita de Pena, Senorita Albertina de Pena, the counselor of the French Embassy, Count de Peretti de la Rocca; the second secretary of the Uruguayan Legation, Mr. Hugo V. de Pena; Mr. A. Maurice Lowe, Mr. M. A. Viti, legal counsel of the Italian Embassy; Dr. N. Serati, of the Italian Navy, and Mr. G. B. Ceccato, commercial delegate of the Italian Embassy.

Mr. George W. Guthrie, of Pittsburgh, Pa., the recently appointed American Ambassador to Japan, who has spent the past week in Washington, has also been extensively entertained during his stay here. The Japanese Ambassador, Viscount Chinda, gave a brilliant dinner in his honor on Friday night, and the Secretary of State, Mr. William Jennings Bryan, was also host at a stag dinner in compliment to him on Thursday evening.

The hospitality offered the "stranger within our gates," during the past week is the last flicker of the social candle, which has at last burned down to its socket. The arrival of the long-expected hot wave decided many residents, who had put off their departure from Washington, to hurry out of the city as soon as they could close their houses, and the last week of June finds the fashionable Northwest almost deserted.

The Chinese Minister and Mme. Chang and their family left Washington yesterday for San Francisco, whence they will sail for China. Their departure marked an epoch, for Mme. Chang and her daughters were gowned in the latest creations obtained by fashionable European dressmakers—whereas, on their arrival in Washington several years ago they wore their native costumes, and the splendor of the Oriental silks was dazzling to behold.

McAdoo-McCormick.

The wedding of Miss Ethel Preston McCormick, daughter of Mrs. Isaac E. Emerson, to Mr. Francis Huger McAdoo, son of the Secretary of the Treasury, which took place at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon at Brookland Wood, in the Green Spring Valley, near Baltimore, was honored by the presence of President Wilson.

It was intended to hold the ceremony on the lawn, but the threatening weather changed the plan and the pair were wedded indoors.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her stepfather, Mr. Emerson, wore a beautiful gown of ivory satin, combined with point lace. Her veil was of tulle, bordered with the same lace, and she

The maid of honor was Miss Nona McAdoo, sister of the bridegroom, and the bridesmaids were Mrs. Ralph H. Matheson, Miss Florence D. Farley, Miss Kathleen Dunn, and Mrs. Austin J. Feuchtmeyer, of New York. They were dressed alike in accordion-pleated skirts of pink chiffon satin, with coats of flowered blue silk.

Mr. William G. McAdoo, Jr., was his father's best man, and the ushers were Mr. Henry Hille Jenkins and Mr. J. B. Bonal Brooks, of Baltimore; Mr. William R. Scott, of Pittsburgh; Mr. Edward Whitman, Mr. Harry F. Osborne, Mr. Herbert Townsend, Mr. H. Barrow Parr, Mr. William Fellows Morgan, Jr., and Mr. James L. Breese, Jr., of New York; Mr. John H. Potter, Mr. Norman Mackie, and Mr. Robert Clement, of Rutland, Vt., and Mr. Frederick B. Read, of Providence, R. I.

Late last night the bride and bridegroom left on Capt. Emerson's yacht, the Margaret II, on which they will spend their honeymoon. Among the distinguished guests present were President and Mrs. Wilson, the Misses Wilson, Vice President and Mrs. Marshall, Secretary of State and Mrs. Bryan, Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, Attorney General McReynolds, Postmaster General and Mrs. Burleson, Secretary of the Interior and Mrs. Lane, Secretary of Agriculture Houston, Secretary of Commerce and Mrs. William C. Borden Harriman, Mr. and Mrs. James L. Breese, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Straus, Mr. and Mrs. William Fellows Morgan, Miss Sarah Morgan, of New York, and Mr. and Mrs. James Potter, of Philadelphia.

The presents, over 200 in number, are among the handsomest ever received by a Baltimore bride, and include, in addition to the diamond dog collar presented by Mr. and Mrs. Vanderbilt, a magnificent diamond chain from Mr. and Mrs. Emerson, and a silver service and all the flat silver from the groom and his father. The President and Mrs. Wilson sent a large silver vase, and handsome presents were sent by all of the Cabinet members.
